The Platform for Human Services

Casebook, originally launched by the Annie E. Casey Foundation, is a proven SaaS human services platform. Our technology solutions are the response to frustration among human services professionals and leaders who have struggled with antiquated information systems. As a result, Casebook PBC develops configurable, intuitive, and easy to maintain software in close partnership with human services practitioners. Our solutions evolve with policy and practice in child welfare and human services to provide the best-in-class experience.

As a public benefit corporation, we are led by a set of core beliefs that are meant to help us improve lives through software solutions.

Casebook PBC was named a 2020 GovTech 100 company by Government Technology magazine. It is the second year in a row that Casebook PBC was recognized as a technology leader in government. Casebook now offers the same enterprise-level solutions to non-profit human services organizations.

Casebook Solutions empower organizations of all sizes to work in and out of the office seamlessly. All available with scalable per-user pricing enabling organizations in human services to have access to technology that both helps workers and supports better outcomes.

The Casebook Platform and is configurable and scalable, ready to serve the smallest nonprofit or largest government agencies with speed, security, and reliability.
